

Fire Safety Awareness

Introduction

This engaging and thought-provoking course will give learners an insight into fire safety in the UK.

With interactive features, the course discusses legislation regarding fire safety in the workplace, the typical fire hazards that you might encounter, what causes a fire, and what to do to should a fire start where you work.

Audience

This course is intended for every workplace needing to know about fire safety. It covers what to do in the event of a fire, and fire prevention tips. By law, employers should provide fire safety training to their employees and this course builds a general awareness of the subject.

Objectives

In this course you will gain a basic understanding of:

- Legislation regarding fire safety in the workplace
- How a fire can start and spread
- The typical fire hazards you might face in your work
- How to reduce the risk of a fire breaking out, and
- What procedures to follow and actions to take in the event of a fire

Modules

This course contains the following modules:

Module name

- Fire and fire hazards
- Fire precautions and prevention
- What to do in the event of a fire

Content

This course is split into three modules:

- Fire and Fire Hazards
- Fire Precaution and Prevention
- What to do in the Event of a Fire

Upon successful completion of this course you will be automatically awarded a certificate containing the course name, completion date, CPD hours and learning objectives.

